

BAKING POWDER.

ROYAL BAKING POWDER
Absolutely Pure.

Made from German Cream Tartar—No other preparation so successful in light, hot breads, or soufflés. Can be eaten by Infants without fear of the resulting from heavy indigestible food. Sold only by the Royal Baking Powder Co., NEW YORK.

DRY GOODS.

THE $10 DOLMAN

We open to-day the best All-Wool Dolman in the city for $10.

500 PAIR

Of those Soft and Pliable Black and Colored

KID GLOVES

At 50c a Pair.

1,000 Yards Vesta Suits

At 10c per yard. Reduced from 15c.

JOHN EMSHEIMER,

Eleventh St., Near Second Ward Market.

P. S.—Five hundred yards Circular and Under Cloth at 95c per yard, worth $1.25.

DOLMANS!

CLOAKS, CIRCULARS, WALKING JACKETS.

SILKS AND SATINS

Satin de Lyon.

High and Rich Novelties!

Velvets, Brocades, Fringes, Mommies, Cashmeres, Plaids, Passementeries, Ornaments, Tassels.

THE FINEST STOCK.

THE BEST ASSORTMENT.

THE LOWEST PRICES.

I. BLUM & BRO.,

1104 Main Street.

The Intelligencer.

Office: Nos. 25 and 27 Fourteenth Street.

New Advertisements.

Spare Ribbs—D. C. List, Jr.

Cincinnati Packet—Andes.

Steam Laundry—Baker and Primrose.

Skating Rink—O'Brien.

The Giant Riding Saw Machine.

"We're Happy at Our Home."

Opera House—George Holland.

German Student Lamp—Nesbit & Bro.

For Rent—H. Z. Shriver.

Notice—Lafayette Building Association.

For Rent—W. C. Dzelz.

Toys—Wheat & Naylor.

We have Stem Wind Watches with Looking Glass, for $10.

JACOB W. GRUBBS,

Corner Market and Twelfth Sts.

Thermometer Record.—The following shows the range of the thermometer, as observed at Schnepf's drug store, Opera House corner:

1879. SATURDAY. 1880.

7 A. M. 32. 10 A. M. 37. 1 P. M. 41. 4 P. M. 45. 7 P. M. 48. 10 P. M. 50.

1879. SUNDAY. 1880.

7 A. M. 32. 10 A. M. 37. 1 P. M. 41. 4 P. M. 45. 7 P. M. 48. 10 P. M. 50.

WEATHER INDICATOR.

WASHINGTON, D. C., November 22.—1 A. M.—For Tennessee and the Ohio Valley, lower barometer, falling, followed by higher temperature, northerly veering to easterly winds, clear or partly cloudy weather.

MUTTON BROTH SOUP for Merchants

Lunch this morning at the New Melrose House Sample Rooms.

STRIKING COAL MIXERS.—The miners employed at the upper bank of Mena, Kanley & Brooks, on Saturday evening made a demand for wages equal to those paid by other piddling banks of the city. Upon being refused they organized a strike. The strikers say they have been receiving only 45 cents per car of 312 bushels, while the ruling price for digging is 2 cents a bushel. They claim that their wages have been 90 cents a day less than paid at other banks.

The men engaged in this bank in mining coal to supply the Crescent Mill did not participate in the strike.

THE COURTS.—SUPREME COURT OF APPEALS—Judges Green, Raymond, Moore and Johnson.—The following business was disposed of at the session of the Supreme Court of Appeals, held in the Capitol on Saturday:

State vs. Alexander, from Greenbrier county. Writ of error refused.

City of Wheeling vs. Forsythe, from Ohio county. Appeal and supersedeas allowed. $200.

Allen vs. Yeator, from Ritchie county. Affirmed.

Karnes vs. Custer, from Wood county. Reversed and remanded.

Devendorf vs. O. & O. L. Co., Wood county. Affirmed.

Coffman vs. Griffin, Harrison county. Affirmed.

Washington vs. B. & O. R. R. Co., Jefferson county. Affirmed.

Cassanova vs. Krensch, Ohio county. Motion for new bond docketed and submitted.

The publication of the sixteenth volume of West Virginia Reports was ordered.

Adjourned until next Saturday at 9 A. M.

LOCAL LAMEN.

Brief Note and Comment on Current City Events.

DAVID POWELL was looked up for drunkards by Officer Debaugh yesterday.

ALFRED DAVIS is pushing a movement to organize a new brass band in the Eighth ward.

The Wheeling art critics are ventilating their views in the Sunday papers quite freely.

Five police are kept busy now in saving drunken men from freezing on the streets at night.

WHEELING creek is closed over with a sheet of ice. Skaters were gliding on the surface yesterday.

The Committee on Ordinances is called to meet again at the City Building at 7 o'clock this evening.

The Leisure Boat Club will give a select ball at Westwood's Hall, on next Friday evening. Vieweg's band will furnish the music.

OFFICER RUTHERFORD picked up Thomas Dixon at the Grant House corner last night. He was very drunk and in a freezing condition.

GOVERNOR MATTHEWS has appointed Maj. J. C. Alderson, of this city, a member of the Board of Penitentiary Directors, vice Capt. A. Wilson, resigned.

The death of Marshall Cahoun, a teamster, of the Eighth ward, occurred on Saturday. He had long been sick. The funeral services took place on Sunday.

CAPT. DAVID NESBITT, of the Fourth ward, announces himself as a foot race on Saturday. The Captain is a popular man, and would make a good run.

This eleven-year-old daughter of Mr. Flynn, of the Eighth ward, who was so severely burned a few days ago, died from the effects of her injuries on Saturday night.

We notice the starting up of a new steam laundry at 1413 Main street by Messrs. Bulker & Primrose. This is a needed institution, and we bespeak a liberal patronage for it.

C. O'NEILL, of Martin's Ferry, and Mat Anderson, of this city, ran a foot race on the Island fair grounds Saturday—distance one hundred yards, for $50 a side. O'Neill won the race by a yard and a half.

ANOTHER foot race will take place at the Island fair grounds on Saturday, December 4. The contestants are Charles Ruff of the Sixth ward, and David Schaeffer, of the Eighth. The stakes are $100 a side.

MISS LIZZIE CHERRY's friends, to the number of a dozen or so couples, surprised her at the family residence on Eoff street, South Wheeling, Friday evening, and the most enjoyable social time was had by all.

MR. J. C. BRADY, Secretary of the Wheeling Hinge Company, was called home on Saturday from a trip South, by the sad intelligence of the death of his little daughter Marian. She was a bright and interesting child, and leaves many mourning friends whom she had attracted by her winning ways.

JOHN SIMMONS, of Bellaire, came up to the city on Saturday night, and landed in the lockup before he could get up his morning coat. He was arrested by Officer Miller, who was being drunk and disorderly. He was released in a window of Waldehn's shop, on Chapline street, South Wheeling.

Two suspicious looking men were discovered skulking around the back yard of the St. Charles Hotel at late hour on Saturday night. They had carried a bench and placed it against the garden gate on Fourteenth street to enable them to climb over. The appearance of a watchman with a lantern frightened them away.

YESTERDAY afternoon the funeral services of the late Mrs. Sarah Johnson, wife of W. J. Johnson of the Register, took place at the United Presbyterian Church. Rev. Dr. McCullough officiated. The beautiful and sublime chapter of St. Paul on immortality was read, brief but impressive remarks were made on the subject of death, and psalms were sung by the choir. A large number was in attendance. The remains were laid to rest in the Penitentiary cemetery.

E. L. GOODRICH will depart to-day for Minneapolis, Minn., having received intelligence, on Saturday, of the death of his father, Dr. Calvin G. Goodrich, at that place. The late Dr. Goodrich was a native of West Virginia, having been born at Parkersburg. He left there in his sixteenth year and went to Ohio. Adopting the medical profession, he studied at Cincinnati, and practiced there for some time. Dr. Goodrich had long been an invalid from an affection of the lungs. He had been accustomed to spending his winters in Colorado and his summers in Minneapolis.

TENTH MEETING

Of the Eastern Ohio Teachers' Association.

The tenth annual meeting of the Eastern Ohio Teachers' Association, will be held at Barnesville, O., November 26 and 27, 1880.

The following is the programme:

NOVEMBER 26—9 A. M.

Address of Welcome, by Miss Mattie O. Shunk of Barnesville.

Inaugural Address, "Building a Better World," by Maria R. Andrews, of Marietta.

Bobolinks, by H. N. Meritt, Supt. of the Breckinridge Public Schools.

Discussions, opened by Dr. T. C. Orr, Supt. of the Bridgeport Public Schools.

Music, by the Marietta Band.

A Plea for the Bible in the Public Schools, by Rev. F. M. Spencer, President of Marietta College.

NOVEMBER 27—9 A. M.

Educational Forces, by D. W. Matlock, Principal of North School, Steubenville.

A. S. History, by J. M. McLean, Principal of First Ward School, Wheeling, W. Va.

Discussions, opened by Dr. T. C. Orr, Supt. of the Bridgeport Public Schools.

The Place of Latin in Education, by D. J. Ryan, Principal of the Public School, No. 1, Parkersburg.

This meeting will be a most interesting one, and as the persons whose names appear upon the programme are well known as first class educators, we doubt not that the coming session of the Association will be an unusually good one. The lecture on U. S. History, which will be delivered Saturday night by Prof. T. B. McLean, of the Ohio Valley, will be one of the most important features of the occasion. Mr. McLean has an original and ingenious method of imparting instruction in this direction, which has attracted favorable mention from some of the best instructors in the West.

CLOSE OF THE SISTERS' FESTIVAL.

The festival, which was held at Washington Hall for the benefit of the Sisters of St. Joseph, to a successful close. A greater crowd was in attendance than on any preceding evening, the entrance fees amounting to $145. Of the prizes, Miss Mary Gallagher won the lady's gold watch, producing $127.26 against $79.10, which was raised by her competitor, Miss Minnie Wallace, who had won the watch in a previous contest. The third prize, a gold necklace, was awarded to Miss Hinchman, realizing $34. Miss Mahan, a fire escape, got $20. Kate Weir won a writing desk. Master Shaughnessy drew a violin, Master Manion, a tenor drum. Mrs. Rawling, a carriage robe; Mr. Reibach, a fire escape; and Mr. Albert Wilke, a pair of slippers. The drawing for Bishop Kain's portrait, a set of furniture and other choice articles, will be continued, a sufficient number of tickets not having been sold. The total receipts are estimated at between three and four hundred dollars.

REMOVAL.—Louis Schwab, of the First National School, 1013 Market street, informs his patrons that he will remove his place of business to-day to 1018, same street, where to-morrow forenoon and evening he will entertain his friends and customers with a grand lunch spread, to which he cordially invites them one and all.

THE remedy that will cure the many diseases peculiar to women is Warner's Safe Kidney and Liver Cure.—Mother's Magazine.

THE CHILDREN'S HOME.

Something About Its Management and Its inmates—The Good It Accomplishes.

There is not a more deserving or more beneficial institution in Wheeling than that which is modestly housed up on Thirteenth and Jacob streets. The Wheeling Children's Home was organized in February, 1870, and in the course of the past ten years has had in all some four hundred inmates. Of these about one hundred and sixty have been placed in comfortable homes, and not more than ten have ever been returned to the institution. The capacity of the home is stated at thirty, although a larger number than that have been accommodated at one time. In the course of a year an average of seventy-five children are going out to live in families and others entering. Two have come of age within the Home. The inmates now number twenty-six, nine being girls and seventeen boys.

THE CHILDREN—The children go to the Third ward public school, and are quite favored of Miss Meholin and the other teachers. They attend the Mission Sabbath School in connection with Rev. Barnitz's church, and all the churches about A. Wilson, resigned.

They are not all orphans, some having parents who have deserted them. These worse than orphans are within the permanent legal control of the Home, under its charter. They are legally committed before a magistrate and their parents can not reclaim them.

Through the kindness of Rev. Mr. Barnitz, an Intelligencer reporter was permitted to visit the Home.

Saturday afternoon, and to make a tour of inspection of the different apartments. It is an interesting institution to go over. On the first floor is a neat and commodious parlor, set apart for the Board of Managers. It was furnished by the congregation of the First Presbyterian church. On the opposite side of the hall is the sitting room, and in the hall the whole width of the building. Between this and the front rooms is the old school room, now used as a play room and for reading and study. It is fitted up with a blackboard. The dining hall has two long tables of snowy-white wood, and while eating the children sit upon long "settees," extending the full length of the table. They sit in neat rows, and have a view both to convenience and order, and a roomy pantry adjoins. The bath room is just at the door, and in the yard is a wash house.

The most noticeable feature about the whole establishment is a visitor living in the city is the SCRUPTULOUS CLEANLINESS OF EVERYTHING. Only a few of the rooms are carpeted, and the floors of the others were as clean as the tops of tables, and these were polished till they shone.

The children were mostly in the play-room when we called, though a few were engaged in their studies about the house. Two little chaps, eight or ten years old, were in the wash-house scouring knives for the coming bazaar, and they did it as if it was rare fun to make themselves the inmates of the Home are so equipped to perform duties in keeping with their age and strength. The little ones even have some trifling responsibility which is excellent training for the work-a-day world. The larger boys take more about in attending in the fire. The duties in all departments are thus alternated, so that all have a share of each in the course of a year.

Three servants are kept, a washerwoman, a kitchen girl and a chambermaid. These are the only persons actively engaged about the Home besides Mrs. Mary Ann Eoff, the very acceptable Matron, and her efficient assistants.

THE SLEEPING APARTMENTS are on the second floor, extending the full length of the rear portion of the building. A partition in the middle divides that of the girls from the boys; and at the ends of each are wardrobes for the children's extra clothes. Each child is furnished with three suits and changes throughout. In the rear of the dormitories are the bath-rooms. Two little fellows were standing hesitating, apparently whether they would doff their clothes and dive in, or merely wet their heads and declare they had bathed. They finally decided to risk the water, and were ready for the inspector left wet about ready for their ablution, although they didn't seem to enjoy the prospect any more than the general run of boys.

In front of the second floor is the matron's room and the nursery. Just now there is no baby in the home, and the only use the nursery is put to is for the occasional care of sick members of the flock.

THE GARDEN of the Home are reasonably spacious. Having in mind the little boy who declared he

"I'd rather be a cat like Thomas or a pig like the little boy and the pig. Have any place to dig?"

The reporter asked a little inmate of the sterner sex if the boys had the free run of the garden, and she replied, "Yes, and we raise lots of things." We thought perhaps they did raise a great many more things than he had in his mind, and that Mrs. Eoff must have hands pretty full when, for instance, they raised a row of cabbages, and the boys had the free run of the garden, and she replied, "Yes, and we raise lots of things." We thought perhaps they did raise a great many more things than he had in his mind, and that Mrs. Eoff must have hands pretty full when, for instance, they raised a row of cabbages, and the boys had the free run of the garden, and she replied, "Yes, and we raise lots of things." We thought perhaps they did raise a great many more things than he had in his mind, and that Mrs. Eoff must have hands pretty full when, for instance, they raised a row of cabbages, and the boys had the free run of the garden, and she replied, "Yes, and we raise lots of things." We thought perhaps they did raise a great many more things than he had in his mind, and that Mrs. Eoff must have hands pretty full when, for instance, they raised a row of cabbages, and the boys had the free run of the garden, and she replied, "Yes, and we raise lots of things." We thought perhaps they did raise a great many more things than he had in his mind, and that Mrs. Eoff must have hands pretty full when, for instance, they raised a row of cabbages, and the boys had the free run of the garden, and she replied, "Yes, and we raise lots of things." We thought perhaps they did raise a great many more things than he had in his mind, and that Mrs. Eoff must have hands pretty full when, for instance, they raised a row of cabbages, and the boys had the free run of the garden, and she replied, "Yes, and we raise lots of things." We thought perhaps they did raise a great many more things than he had in his mind, and that Mrs. Eoff must have hands pretty full when, for instance, they raised a row of cabbages, and the boys had the free run of the garden, and she replied, "Yes, and we raise lots of things." We thought perhaps they did raise a great many more things than he had in his mind, and that Mrs. Eoff must have hands pretty full when, for instance, they raised a row of cabbages, and the boys had the free run of the garden, and she replied, "Yes, and we raise lots of things." We thought perhaps they did raise a great many more things than he had in his mind, and that Mrs. Eoff must have hands pretty full when, for instance, they raised a row of cabbages, and the boys had the free run of the garden, and she replied, "Yes, and we raise lots of things." We thought perhaps they did raise a great many more things than he had in his mind, and that Mrs. Eoff must have hands pretty full when, for instance, they raised a row of cabbages, and the boys had the free run of the garden, and she replied, "Yes, and we raise lots of things." We thought perhaps they did raise a great many more things than he had in his mind, and that Mrs. Eoff must have hands pretty full when, for instance, they raised a row of cabbages, and the boys had the free run of the garden, and she replied, "Yes, and we raise lots of things." We thought perhaps they did raise a great many more things than he had in his mind, and that Mrs. Eoff must have hands pretty full when, for instance, they raised a row of cabbages, and the boys had the free run of the garden, and she replied, "Yes, and we raise lots of things." We thought perhaps they did raise a great many more things than he had in his mind, and that Mrs. Eoff must have hands pretty full when, for instance, they raised a row of cabbages, and the boys had the free run of the garden, and she replied, "Yes, and we raise lots of things." We thought perhaps they did raise a great many more things than he had in his mind, and that Mrs. Eoff must have hands pretty full when, for instance, they raised a row of cabbages, and the boys had the free run of the garden, and she replied, "Yes, and we raise lots of things." We thought perhaps they did raise a great many more things than he had in his mind, and that Mrs. Eoff must have hands pretty full when, for instance, they raised a row of cabbages, and the boys had the free run of the garden, and she replied, "Yes, and we raise lots of things." We thought perhaps they did raise a great many more things than he had in his mind, and that Mrs. Eoff must have hands pretty full when, for instance, they raised a row of cabbages, and the boys had the free run of the garden, and she replied, "Yes, and we raise lots of things." We thought perhaps they did raise a great many more things than he had in his mind, and that Mrs. Eoff must have hands pretty full when, for instance, they raised a row of cabbages, and the boys had the free run of the garden, and she replied, "Yes, and we raise lots of things." We thought perhaps they did raise a great many more things than he had in his mind, and that Mrs. Eoff must have hands pretty full when, for instance, they raised a row of cabbages, and the boys had the free run of the garden, and she replied, "Yes, and we raise lots of things." We thought perhaps they did raise a great many more things than he had in his mind, and that Mrs. Eoff must have hands pretty full when, for instance, they raised a row of cabbages, and the boys had the free run of the garden, and she replied, "Yes, and we raise lots of things." We thought perhaps they did raise a great many more things than he had in his mind, and that Mrs. Eoff must have hands pretty full when, for instance, they raised a row of cabbages, and the boys had the free run of the garden, and she replied, "Yes, and we raise lots of things." We thought perhaps they did raise a great many more things than he had in his mind, and that Mrs. Eoff must have hands pretty full when, for instance, they raised a row of cabbages, and the boys had the free run of the garden, and she replied, "Yes, and we raise lots of things." We thought perhaps they did raise a great many more things than he had in his mind, and that Mrs. Eoff must have hands pretty full when, for instance, they raised a row of cabbages, and the boys had the free run of the garden, and she replied, "Yes, and we raise lots of things." We thought perhaps they did raise a great many more things than he had in his mind, and that Mrs. Eoff must have hands pretty full when, for instance, they raised a row of cabbages, and the boys had the free run of the garden, and she replied, "Yes, and we raise lots of things." We thought perhaps they did raise a great many more things than he had in his mind, and that Mrs. Eoff must have hands pretty full when, for instance, they raised a row of cabbages, and the boys had the free run of the garden, and she replied, "Yes, and we raise lots of things." We thought perhaps they did raise a great many more things than he had in his mind, and that Mrs. Eoff must have hands pretty full when, for instance, they raised a row of cabbages, and the boys had the free run of the garden, and she replied, "Yes, and we raise lots of things." We thought perhaps they did raise a great many more things than he had in his mind, and that Mrs. Eoff must have hands pretty full when, for instance, they raised a row of cabbages, and the boys had the free run of the garden, and she replied, "Yes, and we raise lots of things." We thought perhaps they did raise a great many more things than he had in his mind, and that Mrs. Eoff must have hands pretty full when, for instance, they raised a row of cabbages, and the boys had the free run of the garden, and she replied, "Yes, and we raise lots of things." We thought perhaps they did raise a great many more things than he had in his mind, and that Mrs. Eoff must have hands pretty full when, for instance, they raised a row of cabbages, and the boys had the free run of the garden, and she replied, "Yes, and we raise lots of things." We thought perhaps they did raise a great many more things than he had in his mind, and that Mrs. Eoff must have hands pretty full when, for instance, they raised a row of cabbages, and the boys had the free run of the garden, and she replied, "Yes, and we raise lots of things." We thought perhaps they did raise a great many more things than he had in his mind, and that Mrs. Eoff must have hands pretty full when, for instance, they raised a row of cabbages, and the boys had the free run of the garden, and she replied, "Yes, and we raise lots of things." We thought perhaps they did raise a great many more things than he had in his mind, and that Mrs. Eoff must have hands pretty full when, for instance, they raised a row of cabbages, and the boys had the free run of the garden, and she replied, "Yes, and we raise lots of things." We thought perhaps they did raise a great many more things than he had in his mind, and that Mrs. Eoff must have hands pretty full when, for instance, they raised a row of cabbages, and the boys had the free run of the garden, and she replied, "Yes, and we raise lots of things." We thought perhaps they did raise a great many more things than he had in his mind, and that Mrs. Eoff must have hands pretty full when, for instance, they raised a row of cabbages, and the boys had the free run of the garden, and she replied, "Yes, and we raise lots of things." We thought perhaps they did raise a great many more things than he had in his mind, and that Mrs. Eoff must have hands pretty full when, for instance, they raised a row of cabbages, and the boys had the free run of the garden, and she replied, "Yes, and we raise lots of things." We thought perhaps they did raise a great many more things than he had in his mind, and that Mrs. Eoff must have hands pretty full when, for instance, they raised a row of cabbages, and the boys had the free run of the garden, and she replied, "Yes, and we raise lots of things." We thought perhaps they did raise a great many more things than he had in his mind, and that Mrs. Eoff must have hands pretty full when, for instance, they raised a row of cabbages, and the boys had the free run of the garden, and she replied, "Yes, and we raise lots of things." We thought perhaps they did raise a great many more things than he had in his mind, and that Mrs. Eoff must have hands pretty full when, for instance, they raised a row of cabbages, and the boys had the free run of the garden, and she replied, "Yes, and we raise lots of things." We thought perhaps they did raise a great many more things than he had in his mind, and that Mrs. Eoff must have hands pretty full when, for instance, they raised a row of cabbages, and the boys had the free run of the garden, and she replied, "Yes, and we raise lots of things." We thought perhaps they did raise a great many more things than he had in his mind, and that Mrs. Eoff must have hands pretty full when, for instance, they raised a row of cabbages, and the boys had the free run of the garden, and she replied, "Yes, and we raise lots of things." We thought perhaps they did raise a great many more things than he had in his mind, and that Mrs. Eoff must have hands pretty full when, for instance, they raised a row of cabbages, and the boys had the free run of the garden, and she replied, "Yes, and we raise lots of things." We thought perhaps they did raise a great many more things than he had in his mind, and that Mrs. Eoff must have hands pretty full when, for instance, they raised a row of cabbages, and the boys had the free run of the garden, and she replied, "Yes, and we raise lots of things." We thought perhaps they did raise a great many more things than he had in his mind, and that Mrs. Eoff must have hands pretty full when, for instance, they raised a row of cabbages, and the boys had the free run of the garden, and she replied, "Yes, and we raise lots of things." We thought perhaps they did raise a great many more things than he had in his mind, and that Mrs. Eoff must have hands pretty full when, for instance, they raised a row of cabbages, and the boys had the free run of the garden, and she replied, "Yes, and we raise lots of things." We thought perhaps they did raise a great many more things than he had in his mind, and that Mrs. Eoff must have hands pretty full when, for instance, they raised a row of cabbages, and the boys had the free run of the garden, and she replied, "Yes, and we raise lots of things." We thought perhaps they did raise a great many more things than he had in his mind, and that Mrs. Eoff must have hands pretty full when, for instance, they raised a row of cabbages, and the boys had the free run of the garden, and she replied, "Yes, and we raise lots of things." We thought perhaps they did raise a great many more things than he had in his mind, and that Mrs. Eoff must have hands pretty full when, for instance, they raised a row of cabbages, and the boys had the free run of the garden, and she replied, "Yes, and we raise lots of things." We thought perhaps they did raise a great many more things than he had in his mind, and that Mrs. Eoff must have hands pretty full when, for instance, they raised a row of cabbages, and the boys had the free run of the garden, and she replied, "Yes, and we raise lots of things." We thought perhaps they did raise a great many more things than he had in his mind, and that Mrs. Eoff must have hands pretty full when, for instance, they raised a row of cabbages, and the boys had the free run of the garden, and she replied, "Yes, and we raise lots of things." We thought perhaps they did raise a great many more things than he had in his mind, and that Mrs. Eoff must have hands pretty full when, for instance, they raised a row of cabbages, and the boys had the free run of the garden, and she replied, "Yes, and we raise lots of things." We thought perhaps they did raise a great many more things than he had in his mind, and that Mrs. Eoff must have hands pretty full when, for instance, they raised a row of cabbages, and the boys had the free run of the garden, and she replied, "Yes, and we raise lots of things." We thought perhaps they did raise a great many more things than he had in his mind, and that Mrs. Eoff must have hands pretty full when, for instance, they raised a row of cabbages, and the boys had the free run of the garden, and she replied, "Yes, and we raise lots of things." We thought perhaps they did raise a great many more things than he had in his mind, and that Mrs. Eoff must have hands pretty full when, for instance, they raised a row of cabbages, and the boys had the free run of the garden, and she replied, "Yes, and we raise lots of things." We thought perhaps they did raise a great many more things than he had in his mind, and that Mrs. Eoff must have hands pretty full when, for instance, they raised a row of cabbages, and the boys had the free run of the garden, and she replied, "Yes, and we raise lots of things." We thought perhaps they did raise a great many more things than he had in his mind, and that Mrs. Eoff must have hands pretty full when, for instance, they raised a row of cabbages, and the boys had the free run of the garden, and she replied, "Yes, and we raise lots of things." We thought perhaps they did raise a great many more things than he had in his mind, and that Mrs. Eoff must have hands pretty full when, for instance, they raised a row of cabbages, and the boys had the free run of the garden, and she replied, "Yes, and we raise lots of things." We thought perhaps they did raise a great many more things than he had in his mind, and that Mrs. Eoff must have hands pretty full when, for instance, they raised a row of cabbages, and the boys had the free run of the garden, and she replied, "Yes, and we raise lots of things." We thought perhaps they did raise a great many more things than he had in his mind, and that Mrs. Eoff must have hands pretty full when, for instance, they raised a row of cabbages, and the boys had the free run of the garden, and she replied, "Yes, and we raise lots of things." We thought perhaps they did raise a great many more things than he had in his mind, and that Mrs. Eoff must have hands pretty full when, for instance, they raised a row of cabbages, and the boys had the free run of the garden, and she replied, "Yes, and we raise lots of things." We thought perhaps they did raise a great many more things than he had in his mind, and that Mrs. Eoff must have hands pretty full when, for instance, they raised a row of cabbages, and the boys had the free run of the garden, and she